Dear Dave--

Two more points on your profile, which, as they now read may be rather embarrassing if not qualified.

p. 18 mid page

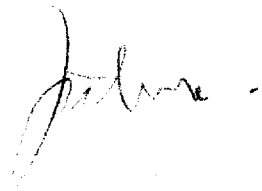

So although I'm opposed to the heavy emphasis on a lander in the 1973 mission as a matter of strategy, I'm involved in it as a matter of tactics, in responding to a very exciting challenge....

p.19 at end of paragraph 3: add

Even more important, in his view, is building a balanced perspective, to harmonize the rigor of scientific research, the insightful observation of human nature, and intense compassion for human miseries. All of these points of view must influence policy decisions on the wisest allocation of social investment for the management of the incredible costs of mental illness.

I appreciate your attention to these.

Sincerely,
